Chesterford Research Park secure the services of the world's greatest 'Heroes' for the Saffron Walden Carnival.

Members of the Chesterford Research Park team donned the guises of their favourite heroes, and joined the cavalcade of 100 floats for this year's 'Heroes' themed Saffron Walden Carnival.

The most illustrious band of superheroes ever assembled (including Batwoman, Wonder Woman and Captain America) were kept in check by Charlie Chaplin as they paraded a float showcasing The Nucleus facilities along the four mile procession route from Saffron Walden common. Along the way, they collected money for local charities from the thousands of generous people who lined the streets.

Commenting on being part of the Carnival, Park Manager, Katherine Maguire (aka Batwoman) said: "The Saffron Walden Carnival is an amazing spectacle that really promotes what our local community has to offer to the region and beyond. At Chesterford Research Park we are proud of being part of this thriving community and are very keen to actively participate and contribute towards the success of these local initiatives."
